

BASE BALL.

FRIDAY.

The Bourbonites went to Lexington Friday afternoon where they dropped the second game of the series to the Colts, the contest resulting in a score of 6 to 0.

Kline, the side-wheeler opposed Harold in the contest and held the Bourbonites with two hits during the nine sessions, while the Colts' accumulation amounted to eleven. Score: Lexington.....0 1 1 2 1 0 1 1 x-6 Paris.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-0

SATURDAY.

Slated for double-header the Bourbonites went to Lexington Saturday only to again meet defeat at the hands of the Colts in the first game, and in the second Umpire Feye called the game on account of darkness in the fifth inning after the Bourbonites were leading by a score of 3 to 0. Williams was hit hard but with all that only three of the runs made by the Colts were really earned. The locals had the best of the argument with the stick and Kellogg was touched up for ten hits.

In the second game Winchell was sent on the mound, pitching a fine game and allowing the Colts only one scratch hit in the four sessions. A wild throw in the second put a runner on third and Eddington allowed two hits in a row which counted the first tally for Paris. Another wild throw which came after two clean singles gave the Bourbonites two more.

The locals were eager to finish the game and to hasten matters somewhat McKernan who was the first up in the fifth stepped across the plate when Eddington delivered the ball. Instead of calling him out Umpire Feye announced the game called on account of darkness, thus depriving Paris of a well-earned victory. Score: Lexington.....0 1 0 3 2 1 0 2 x-9 Paris.....0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0-3

SUNDAY.

What promised to be a contest full of interest all the way wound up in the utter defeat of the Pioneers Sunday afternoon, when in a single inning the Bourbonites sent seven men across the rubber and held the team from the Madison capital without a tally during the nine sessions.

The contest was fast and furious for five innings, Winchell and Allison, the opposing pitchers, being in rare form and dispensing assortments of curves of the most deceptive order. In the five sessions Winchell allowed but two hits which came in a row in the second round but the side was reached before the plate could be reached. Three hits off of Allison in the five rounds came only one at a time, but two of the number went for extra bases. In the fifth Scott planted the sphere in deep center and went to third but died in an attempted squeeze. In the inning previous McKernan led off with a single and reached third on two outs, only to see Barnett swing at three wide ones.

In the fifth session Allison used all his steam to keep the Bourbonites from scoring and suffered an injury to his pitching arm. Wright was substituted, but was pounded out of the box before the inning was two-thirds over and Willis was sent in to put a stop to the run getting.

After Winchell had perished Kuhlman hit a stinger to third that was too hot for Olson. McKernan sent one into left territory and both reached home on Kaiser's safety to right. Goodman drove a hot one to right which the latter knocked down and Kaiser went all the way to third before the ball could be recovered.

Goodman stole second and Barnett scored the two runners on a single to left. Willis then went in to stem the tide and Scott sent the ball to right for three bases, scoring Barnett. Chapman flied to Maloney and on the out Scott scored. Holder tripped to right and came home on Willis' fumble of Winchell's bounder. Winchell died in an attempt to pilfer second, retiring the side.

The visitors never succeeded in getting a man farther than second and then only in one instance. Kuhlman was forced to retire from the game in the seventh inning owing to his injured foot and Max well filled the position at third.

Paris has seven more scheduled games to play, five of which will be on the home grounds and two at Richmond.

Today at White Park they tackle Richmond, Wednesday and Thursday they play at Richmond and return here for a postponed game with Frankfort on Friday. Saturday the Colts will be here and on Tuesday the Sheets-Yancey aggregation will close the season at White Park. It is possible the postponed game with Lexington may be played here Saturday instead of Tuesday, as much depends on the three games with Lexington as to which team will win the series. Lexington is one game ahead of Paris having taken an even dozen to eleven for the Bourbonites. The locals have won the series from every other team in the league, and the locals are only waiting for the three big games with the Colts in order to make clean sweep of the series with every club in the league.

In order to perform this stunt the Bourbonites must take both the scheduled games from the Colts and if the postponed game is played it will be necessary for them to win all three in order to prevent the Colts from breaking even.

During the season so far Paris has won forty-five games on their home grounds and lost seventeen. Abroad they have captured thirty and lost twenty-eight. At home they won ten and lost two to Richmond, won thirteen and lost two to Maysville, won seven and lost four to Lexington, and won eight and lost five to Frankfort. Abroad they have won six and lost five to Richmond, won six and lost seven to Winchester, won eight and lost two to Maysville, won four and lost eight to Lexington, and won six and lost six to Frankfort. Score: Paris.....0 0 0 0 0 7 0 0 x-7 Richmond.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-0

MONDAY.

In a one-sided contest yesterday afternoon Paris defeated the Senators by a score of 5 to 0. Cramer was on the mound for the visitors while Poole filled the same position for the locals.

Thoughts That Control Destiny.

Lofty thoughts suffice not always to overcome destiny; for against these destiny can oppose thoughts that are loftier still; but what destiny has ever withstood thoughts that are simple and good, thoughts that are tender and loyal?—Maeterlinck.

The Cook to Blame.

At Sunday dinner the other day a little fellow was picking the drumsticks of a chicken and swallowed one of the tendons. After much difficulty it was removed from his throat, when he looked up and said: "Oh, mamma, it wasn't the chickabiddy's fault; it was because cook forgot to take off its garters."—Los Angeles Times.

HIS IDEA

The Preacher—I hope you are prepared to enter heaven.
The New Millionaire—Not unless it is easier than getting into society.

Paris Takes the Coveted Flag.

The pennant of 1910 will float over White Park next season and that is now an assured fact. The trouncing the Bourbonites gave the Pioneers in the game here Sunday and the drubbing given the Colts by Maysville at Lexington Sunday afternoon was the last nail to bind the coveted flag to the staff at the local park.

Under the leadership of Eddie McKernan the Bourbonites went all the way at a steady gait and have earned the highest honors in the league, for this season at least. Last season Paris finished in the third position in the race for the pennant after a bad start. This season with practically the same team under a new manager, although they suffered two defeats at the start and many reverses, forged their way upward until they occupied the highest position and have maintained the lead over the other five clubs for more than half of the season.

The success of the club this season is due to the knowledge of base ball and the ability of McKernan to manage the players.

He knows the game and knows how to drill his men to play it. Since the opening game there has always been injected into the contests the same spirit of determination, not only by McKernan himself but by the entire aggregation. The determination never give up has won more contests than anything else and more than once has victory been snatched from defeat by the generalship of McKernan.

The people of Paris and Bourbon county have backed the club up with genuine base ball enthusiasm and their confidence in the home club was rewarded by their efforts in carrying away the honors of the season. We are proud of our club, and McKernan, who will be at the helm in 1911, will get together a team that the other members of the Blue Grass League will have the greatest difficulty in downing.

Tip the Assistant.

A word to those who may be planning for the first time to go to some famous Paris house for their gowns. The assistant must be tipped. Otherwise one might sit unnoticed for a long time, with every one seemingly too busy to heed. An assistant must be seized as she passes and embraced, after which miracles will occur. A very good tip will even, at the end, after one or two frocks have been purchased, bring forth from some remote recess a "bargain," and it will be one in verity.

Beginning at the foundation.

The progressive people of the parish were anxious to reconstruct and adorn the ancient church and the senior warden wrote to the bishop about it. "There are but two things to be done in St. Gregory's," wrote the bishop, in reply: "let the sexton keep it clean and the parson keep it full."—Youth's Companion.
